We tried to make this list as complete as possible. Comments, additions or corrections are most welcome. Please send us new routing indicators whenever you log them so that we can maintain the database properly. The database is maintained in MS Access. The current edition of the database includes over 12,000 Routing Indicators.

Note:
July 2013: New systems and modes are being used these days. The content of this document is more or less obsolete because not many stations are using these codes and indicators nowadays. Nevertheless I have updated the document with ca 100 indicators from the 1990's. This will be the last update I guess.

INTRODUCTION

This document handles the basic NATO-message-format, a standarised form for all traffic between NATO-units, commands, stations and services. Also covered are other formats and lots of related items, such as routing indicators, MARS routers, and broadcast designators.

Because automation became more and more important it was necessary to standardize the form of the messages and the addresses of all parties so that the traffic could be processed by using self-correcting computer- telex-nets.

Please note that the general 'rules' mentioned here do not always apply to all NATO nations. The codes used for the delivery times of messages appear to differ in the various countries. Another difference is the meaning of the 3rd and 4th letter in the routing indicator. Many countries are using the 3rd letter to indicate where the action is. The French are using the 4th letter to indicate the ''owner'' of the link, i.e. navy, air force, etc.; other countries do not. Remember this when you copy this kinda traffic.

Because of the automation, the routing indicators (RIs) will eventually disappear. They are being replaced by IP-like addresses. Luckily there are still countries who are using the 'old' RI system on short wave. The French military are well known for this.

Besides the NATO countries (North Atlantic Treaty Organization) also the SEATO countries (South East Asian Treaty Organization) are using the same RIs and message codes as do Australia and New Zealand.

NATO members: Belgium, Canada, Czech Republic, Denmark, France, Germany, Greece, Hungary, Iceland, Italy, Luxembourg, the Netherlands, Norway, Poland, Portugal, Spain, Turkey, United Kingdom and United States.

SEATO members: Brunei, Indonesia, Malaysia, Philippines, Singapore, Thailand, Vietnam.

ANZUS members: Australia, New Zealand, USA.

ROUTING INDICATORS

Extract from document FS-1037C:

ROUTING INDICATOR (RI):

1. A group of letters assigned to indicate:
   (a) the geographic location of a station;
   (b) a fixed headquarters of a command, activity, or unit at a geographic location; and
   (c) the general location of a tape relay or tributary station to facilitate the routing of traffic over the tape relay networks.
2. In a message header, an address, i.e., group of characters, that specify routing instructions for the transmission of the message to its final destination. Note: Routing indicators may also include addresses of intermediate points.

A very important part of a message is the ROUTING INDICATOR (RI). There are RIs in each message. A RI shows the destination of a message in a telex-network. They contain information about the sender and receiver like the country of origin and operational area. A typical RI consists of 4 to 9 characters. They are used to speed up the routing of a message.

Example:
The HMS VINCINITY has a message for a state side station. The radio operator puts the message in a standard format and uses a RI for the correct address. He then transmits it to the nearest land station, say Faslane. The radio-managing-system at Faslane "reads" the message-RI and sends it automatically to the right station; via a computerized telex-network.

Another example: we have a message that originates from RFFDEA and has destination RFTJABC. The message is sent by telex to the next main net-point, being RFFD (origin = RFFDEA). The computer at this net point reads the recipient's RI (RFTJABC) and sends it to their main net point RFTJ.
Their the computer reads the next letter of the RI RFTJ_A_ and delivers the message to regional net point RFTJA. The message will automatically be forwarded to the next nodes till it finally reaches its destination.

This example is the most ideal situation. The system works with a terrestrial computerized telex network which is slightly different from the situation on HF. On HF the RIs act more as a selcall. The RI triggers the computer of the recipient or the computer of the communications center that is responsible for the delivery of the message.

Note that there is a difference between a RI and the ADDRESSEE.
Example: 'TO RUCOCGA/COMCOGARDON 44', where RUCOCGA is the RI and 'COMCOGARDON 44' is the ADDRESSEE.

It is not unusual for one Routing Indicator to have multiple addressees. For example, RFLIC is MARINE FORT DE FRANCE. Some other addressees that have used RFLIC are:

COMAR FORT DE FRANCE
COMSUP FORT DE FRANCE
MAIN FORT DE FRANCE
MARINE SERTIM FORT DE FRANCE
SERNAV FORT DE FRANCE
BATIMENT "JULES VERNE"
UNIMAR FORT DE FRANCE

It is only logical that the main communications center at the naval base also handles traffic for other units stationed there as well.

ROUTING INDICATORS EXPLAINED

A routing indicator consists of 4 to 7 characters.

a. FIRST LETTER - The letter "R" is designated as the common first letter to distinguish world-wide routing indicators from call signs, address groups and theater routing indicators.

First letter codes used are:
P = Reserve tactical station
Q = Reserve strategic station
R = Strategic station
U = Tactical station

b. SECOND LETTER - The second letter identifies the nation, service, or international alliance to which allotted, as reflected in the Routing Indicator Delineation Table, ACP 121.
c. THIRD LETTER - The third letter normally indicates the geographical area in which a station is located or from which it is served. Within U.S. communications networks the third letter does not necessarily reflect the geographical area. Due to the shortage of routing indicators in some areas and abundance in other areas, assignments are made irrespective of geographical area, particularly for dedicated network major relay stations and dual access tributary stations.

d. FOURTH LETTER - This letter position serves a dual purpose as follows:
1. Indicates major relay stations, as generated by assignment requirements.
2. Identifies the service or other national / international entity, as shown in the table.

Example: RFTLJFA (French Navy, Praia, Cape Verde)

Type of station	: R = Strategic
Country of origin	: F = France
Operation area	: T = Northwest Africa
Service	: L = Navy
Unit	: JFA

e. FIFTH AND FOLLOWING LETTERS
These letters and positions, when added to the four letters of a major relay routing indicator, designate the minor relay or tributary stations of that major relay station. The letter “C” and all two-letter combinations “CA” through “CZ” are reserved for suffixes to relay station routing indicators. A meaning is prescribed for each authorized suffix. Suffixes are intended to aid the routing of messages for processing purposes or localized action by the relay station or any of its supplementary sections and facilities. The use of these suffixes for intra-network messages is optional but they are not authorized for use on joint or combined messages unless shown in the routing columns of the encode sections of the ACP 117 Series, Allied Routing Indicator Book. The meanings of authorized suffixes are as follows:

C	Local delivery or refile in page form is required. (Used to designate the entire terminal section or the principal tributary station of a relay station.
CA	National use, optional.
CF	Section which accomplishes delivery of traffic by broadcast methods.
CI	Section which coordinates routing information.
CM	Section which prepares tape copies for retransmission.
CN	Electrical conference facility or section.
CP	Circuit/facility control point

CR Crypto center.
CS Section dealing with service messages.
CT Section which accomplishes delivery of traffic by telephone.
CU Section which accomplishes delivery of traffic to commercial carriers.
CW Section which relays traffic by radio telegraph (CW).
CX Section which uses tape relay methods for delivery of traffic to activities served by a military or commercial teletypewriter exchange system.
CY National use, optional.

Additional info:

France: the French naval bases are located in Cherbourg (Channel command base) = RFFJ
Brest (main Atlantic base) = RFFK
Lorient (Atlantic submarine base) = RFFN
Toulon (Mediterranean command) = RFFL
Papeete, Tahiti (refitting base) = RFHJ
Fort-de-France, Martinique = RFLI
Noumea, New Caledonia = RFHI
Cayenne, French Guiana = RFLIG
Saint Denis, Reunion = RFVI

Note: France has permanent naval contingents in Djibouti (RFQP) and other countries using the local facilities. The same applies for army and air force contingents and the UN detachments.

French naval vessels:
There are a few rules, that are -again- not always followed. Officially, a RI for a vessel on the high seas consists of 3 parts;
1) RI of the nearest base
2) the letter 'M' for 'Mer' (= French for 'sea')
3) a suffix of 3 letters (see appendix 3)

Example: RFVIMJVN Jules Verne; RFVI = Reunion, the base that has to relay the message to the ship. M = mer/sea. JVN = the suffix of FS Jules Verne. When a vessel anchored in a port, it has to be addressed without the 'M'; i.e. RFVIJVN Jules Verne. As I said, this rule is not always followed and 2-letter suffixes have been noted as well as group-suffixes. Another common practice when sending traffic to more than one vessel, is to specify the address indicator for the first ship only. For example: RFlLIGJVN JULES VERNE FRANCIS GARNIER MARNE ORAGE. (RFLIG is Cayenne).

On many occasions, French traffic actually contains the word BATIMENT (ship in French) before the name of the vessel. If several vessels are cited in the message, the plural BATIMENTS may be used. Transmissions originating from Fort de France or Cayenne often use the following phrase: TOUS BATIMENTS EN ZONE PETITES ANTILLES (All vessels in the the Lesser Antilles zone). A common misconception among many monitors is that "ALINDIEN" is the name of a French naval vessel. Actually, it is a contraction used to identify French Forces in the Indian Ocean. Hence the phrase "BATIMENTS ALINDIEN" is intended as a general routing message to all French naval vessels operating in the Indian Ocean.

SYRACUSE:
Like 'ALINDIEN', also 'SYRACUSE' is often mentioned as the name of a vessel. It is however a satellite system. A typical address may look like this 'TOUS BATIMENTS CECMED SYRACUSE'.
As we already know, 'TOUS BATIMENTS' means 'all ships', while 'CECMED' means 'Commande Et Controle, MEDiterannee' and 'SYRACUSE' is 'Systeme de Radio Communication Utilisant un Satellite' (Radio Communication System utilizing a Satellite).
It is the name of the French Ministry of Defence satellite system. The space segment of the system employs transponders carried on French Telecom satellites. The ground segment comprises fixed stations within France, together with mobile, transportable and shipborne stations. Data is encrypted for link security and the satellite is accessed using the code-division multiple access technique.

USA / Canada:
The Americans and Canadians compose the RIs in a slightly different way. The first two character are used in the same way as other countries do.
The 3rd and 4th characters are unique routers assigned by the master station; they are more or less permanent. The US forces are using an automatic routing system called NAVCOMPARS (NAVAL COMPUTER AUTODIN ROUTING SYSTEM) or NOVA which does all of the necessary switching.
If you see a message route that ends in "SUU" that is the routing indicator for NAVCOMPARS. It says in effect 'I don't know the distant end's routing indicator, you look it up.' Messages to navy vessels are usually sent to RULYSUU. Group-RIs have been noted, they are probably used when the messages are destined to all vessels in a squadron.

US naval vessels:
The US Navy also adds a suffix to the RI for naval vessels. Here too collective RI-groups are quite common, either a 'special' suffix is being used, or the suffix of one vessel is used for all the vessels in a squadron. I must add, that the use of 'special' suffixes seems to be more popular than the 'recognizable' ones.

Examples:
RHCF_MCC USNS ALBERT J. MYER / PATRIOT / CHAMPION
RHPB_SWG USS STEPHEN W. GROVES

MESSAGES FORMATS AND CODES.
Each standard message consists of so-called 'format lines' (FL). There are 16 of those format lines possible. There is a difference between the format lines in a CW and a RTTY message. An example:

VZCZCEAD035
PP RGFDEA RGFBPJ
DE RGFDEACF 4711 0051245
ZNR UUUUU
PR 051231Z JAN
FM FGS ROMMEL

SIC SVC
MSGNR 4711
INT ZDK X21E 421/429/447/449/450
BT
(8 empty lines)
NNNN

This message simulates traffic from FGS Rommel to NavCommCen Wilhelmshaven via RTTY. So, how can we translate this stuff ???

FL-1 This line contains the start up-procedure for telex-networks. If a message is sent via HF it contains information of the message's classification.

FL-2 PP RGFDEA RGFBPJ: These are the RIs of the addressees. PP means that this is a PRIORITY-message.

FL-3 DE RGFDEACF 4711 0051245: RGFDEACF means that the originator is copying DHJ59 HF-frequencies. 4711 is the originator's message number, 0051245 is the julian date and time-group (DTG), the so called filing time.

FL-4 ZNR UUUUU: Security-advice. There are five classifications:
ZNR UUUUU is used for unclassified messages
ZNY RRRRR for restricted messages
ZNY CCCCC for confidential messages
ZNY SSSSS for secret messages
ZNY TTTTT for top secret messages

FL-5 PR 051231Z JAN: Here are the priority codes again. Four priority codes can be used to indicate the time of delivery: R,P,O,Z. (R=routine, 24 hours of delivery, P=priority, 1-6 hours, O=immediate, 30-60 minutes, Z=flash, not longer than 10 minutes). 'To' and 'Info' addresses often have different priority codes. Following is the DTG in ZULU-time (Z). The DTG consists of DDHHMMz MONTH. Zulu means time at time zone ZULU (equals GMT/UTC).

FL-6 FM FGS ROMMEL: From-line, indicates the originator of the following message.
FL-7 TO RGFDEA/NAVCOMMCEN WILHELMSHAVEN: Action addressee.

FL-8 INFO RGFBPJ/2(GE)DESSQN: Information-addressee (2nd German destroyer-squadron)

FL-11 BT, separates the address-part (FL 1 - 10) from the message-index (FLs 12 a - g).

FL-12
a) UNCLASS: Unclassified message (often clear text)
b) SIC SVC: SIC-code, SVC = Service, for radio operators.
c) MSGNR 4711: originator's message number
g) INT ZDK X21E 421/429/447/449/450: Message-text. FGS ROMMEL requests DHJ59 to repeat transmission of X21E-messages 421, 429, 447, 449 and 450.

FL-13 BT, end-separation

FL-15 EOM (end of message) procedure (8 line-feeds) and NNNN (end sign)

In FL-7 you may find AIGs (Address Indicating Groups) of max. 4 figures (eg AIG3485). An AIG contains at least 10 fixed addresses. They are used to direct messages to multiple receivers without mentioning them all separately. At the moment there are about 8500 AIGs effective. Germany's naval forces are using AIGs 3300-3499.

The above given message is a so called plain dress. Sometimes PLAIN DRESS messages are shortened, skipping FL-5. All classified stuff is however encrypted. NATO uses the AROFLEX encryption system (5-letter groups) for their 'codress' messages. FLs 6, 7, 8, 9 are then left out; they are included in the encrypted message.

The most used message formats are ACP-127 (NATO format and also used by the French) and ACP-126, the latter is used by the USA. It is extremelyunlikely that you will ever see a modified ACP-126 message. All of the US traffic is encrypted before transmission. Therefore I give you here an example of a message in this format, so that you know how it looks like:

```
RTTUZYUW RUBDOPU0001 1220841-UUUU--RHMCSUU.
ZNR UUUUU
R 120842Z MAY 97
FM USS BRISCOE
TO USS NEVERSAIL
INFO COMNAVSURFLANT NORFOLK VA//00//
BT
UNCLAS //N03000//
MSGID/GENADMIN/BRISCOE//

AMPN/REF A IS A TEST MESSAGE//
SUBJ/TEST//
RMKS/1. THIS IS A TEST//
BT
#0001
```

'ZEN' is often wrongly mentioned as a designator. It is no designator but a 'Z'-code. A ZEN address followed by a RI means that the addressee will receive its message in another way, NOT during the transmission that you copied. This normally occurs when the addressee has the same address as the originator. The message can be handed over and don't have to be sent. Here is an example:

FROM HQ SSG MAXWELL AFB GUNTER ANNEX AL//SSFA//
TO AIG 8403
HQ AFMPC RANDOLPH AFB TX//DPMDSAR//
INFO ZEN/DISA MAXWELL AFB GUNTER ANNEX AL//LGSPS//
ZEN/DISA MAXWELL AFB GUNTER ANNEX AL//UFGI/UFGO/UFGS/SSRI//
UNCLASS

Another interesting code is 'T'. When 'T' precedes an addressee, this means that the station who's designator is used is assigned to deliver the message to the unit following the 'T-code'. The 'T' stands for "TARE" often referred to as "TARE INSTRUCTIONS".

Example: HMS Invincible is operating in the Adriatic and monitors the 'X11I' NATO broadcast from Italy. Navy Whitehall wants to pass a message to the Invincible. Whitehall will send the message via the NATO-telex-net to broadcast control 'X11I' (RIFMPCF -Navy Augusta-) in Italy, asking them to deliver the message to HMS Invincible. The message from Whitehall to HMS Invincible via Augusta looks like this 'RIFMPCF T HMS INVINCIBLE'

An AIG is an Address Indicator Group who represents a fixed number of addresses and is used to send a message to more then 10 units. This looks like this: TO AIG 8403 (see above example). The system knows which units are pre-defined in group 8403 and will direct the message directly to the addressees. Sometimes the recipient of the message is mentioned with its SIC (Service Identification Code). In the following example SIC 'SVC' is used. SVC means 'service' and is the code of the ComCen (communications center) and is used for messages between two ComCens.

Finally the priority codes for the delivery of a message:
R = Routine, delivery within 12 hours
P = Priority, delivery within 6 hours
O = Immediate, delivery within 1 hour
Z = Flash, direct delivery without any delay

Example:
OO RFFVAY
DE RFFBBYZ
291010 Z FEB 1996
SIC SVC

EEI MESSAGE FORMAT.

BROADCAST DESIGNATORS.
Each (NATO) broadcast station uses a so called Broadcast designator (BCST-desig). Broadcasts are used by international armed forces to deliver messages especially to naval vessels, actually to all units who depend on HF! The broadcast system allows a unit on sea to receive a message without verifying the receipt of it. A QSL message could give the enemy a chance for a DF.

Example: a Turkish navy broadcast (designator T12A) is transmitted to Turkish warships, even when the position of the ships is unknown. The only negative point is: the originator won't know if the message is received correctly. Normally it is!
All broadcasts have a specific designator, for example X11I, T12A, H34C, A21X etc. So what do they mean? It is quite simple really, they are only abbreviations, nothing more. It is shorter to say to a ship's captain 'Monitor BCST T12A during your mission' instead of 'Monitor the undecoded RTTY-broadcast of Turkish Navy in Ankara, TBA during your mission.'

It looks like this:
rr rxfndcf ryfzin

Each designator exists of a letter/figure/figure/letter combination. The last letter(s) are optional. Here is what they stand for:

First letter (indicates Nation or controlling authority)

A = Australia	N = Netherlands
B = UK	O = not allocated
C = Canada	P = Portugal
D = Denmark	Q = Belgium
E = Spain	R = not allocated
F = France	S = South Africa
G = Germany	T = Turkey
H = USA	U = USA
I = Italy	V = not allocated
J = Argentina	W = NATO
K = Greece	X = NATO
L = Luxembourg	Y = Norway
M = SEATO	Z = New Zealand

First figure
1 - Area-bcst (eg. Northern Atlantic, Indian Ocean etc.)
2 - Sub Area-bcst (eg. Baltic Sea, The Channel etc.)
3 - Submarine-bcst
4 - Special-bcst, activated on special request (exercises etc.)

Second figure
1 - Encrypted RTTY-bcst, different encryption systems
2 - Clear RTTY-bcst
3 - Morse-bcst
4 - FAX
Second / third letter
When a nation uses more than one bcst-station the 2nd and 3rd letter are used to indicate the specific station. Sometimes, when a country has only one station, the last letter is omitted. In case of a NATO broadcast (1st letter = 'X'), the last letter(s) always indicates the location.

Examples:
G23B: Germany, Sub area-morse-bcst, located at Wilhelmshaven (DHJ59)
D23A: Denmark, sub area-morse-bcst, located at Karup (OVG)
I11C: Italy, Area-encrypted-RTTY-bcst, located at Roma (IDR)
X21H: NATO-control, sub area-encrypted-RTTY-bcst, unid location

CIRCUIT ID CODES.
The French Forces network has many fixed links with (former) French dependent areas. The circuit id's can be found at the beginning of each transmission right after 'ZCZC' (see example).

vzczclfa253 <link LFA between Paris and Dakar> oo provence
de provence 9086 2600710
znr uuuuu

controle de voie

Although not always true, most of the times the circuit id (CID) and the return id (RID) consist of the same letters in reversed sequence (ie cid AFL, rid LFA). Sometimes only two of the three letters are reversed (ie cid EHP, rid EPH) and there are also a bunch of id's that do not follow any rule (ie cid VAR, rid REU). Can you still follow it? Fact is that the circuit often matches part of the sending routing indicator. In the next example the sender is RFTJ and the circuit id is TJF. This is the link with Port Bouet (RFTJF) and the return id is in this case JFJ.

vzczctjf016
oo rftj
de rftj 2031839
znr uuuuu
nnnn

One more thing about these circuits. In order to test the circuits, test messages are being sent, at least once a hour. 'Controle de voie' means 'test of circuit'. A circuit can be tested between two stations or from one station to the next node and back again. The latter can be done by entering the same routing indicator as sender AND receiver. When the message reaches the first node in the network the computer recognizes the address of the sender and sends the message back.
